Kyle Miller, a member of Pryor Cashman's Banking + Finance and Corporate Groups, works on numerous matters that are focused on banking, securities, and general corporate law.

With experience in a wide variety of financing transactions, he represents borrowers and lenders in secured and unsecured loan transactions, public offerings, and private placements of debt and equity securities.

Corporations, emerging technology companies, leading banking institutions, and underwriters appreciate Kyle's meticulous attention to detail in their transactional matters. Conscientious and proactive, he handles banking and debt securities matters, negotiates and structures corporate finance deals, and works on cross-border mergers and acquisitions.

Whether representing JPMorgan Chase Bank in a $2.89 billion credit facility provided to one of the nation's largest mutual fund groups or organizing construction financing for major real estate developers, Kyle ensures his clients are able to navigate the complex web of legal, commercial, and regulatory issues that companies face when entering into financing transactions.
